

It's that time again! I hope you are ready for another weekly challenge tutorial from the Echoes and Curves Free-motion Challenge Quilting Along. This week, we are going to talk more about echoing.

Echoing to Highlight Portions of Your Quilt

Echoing is an easy way to show off portions of your quilt. While you're working through this week's challenge, remember that what you echo is what you will be showing off. Try echoing one, two, or all three sides of a block. You can also combine the echo lines with other quilting designs to create beautiful texture.

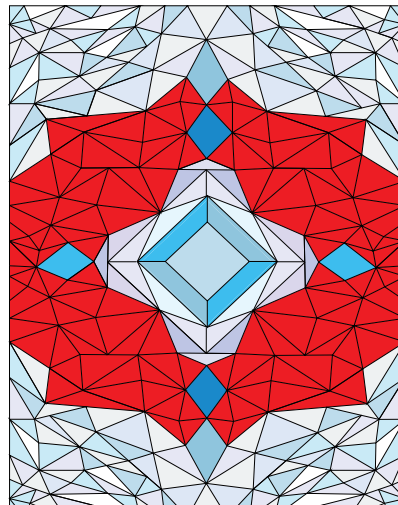

Echoing Inspiration

This week, instead of quilting diagrams, I will be sharing up-close pictures of the quilting that I did on the challenge panel. You can quilt the designs just as I did or come up with your own variations. The most important thing....have fun!

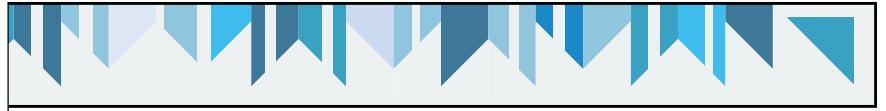

Your Challenge:

If you're quilting along with me on the custom Echoes and Curves panel, quilt echo and serpentine lines in the areas highlighted in red on the diagram. This is the most quilting we have done so far, but don't let it overwhelm you, just take your time and have fun!

Design Placement

If you can't decide which designs to use in each particular area, use this diagram to audition the design placement on your panel.
