Starting about 1/2" away from the edge, position Taj along a seam of the border. Use the reference lines to ensure that the ruler is straight to the border.

1

Quilt along the outside of the ruler until you reach the seam on the opposite side.

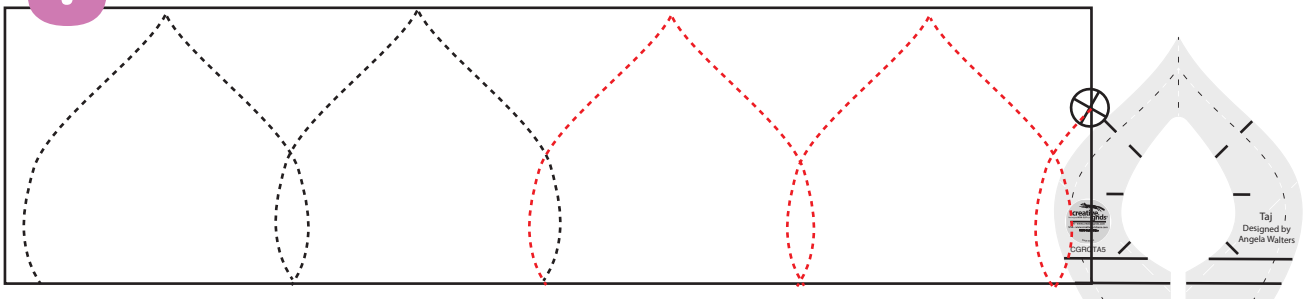

Leaving the needle in the down position, reposition Taj so that it is on the opposite side. Quilt along the outside until you reach the seam on the opposite side.

2

3

Repeat the steps above until you run into the opposite edge of the border.

Use the ruler to help you determine where the next line should go. Aim the point so that it's in between the previously quilted arcs.

4

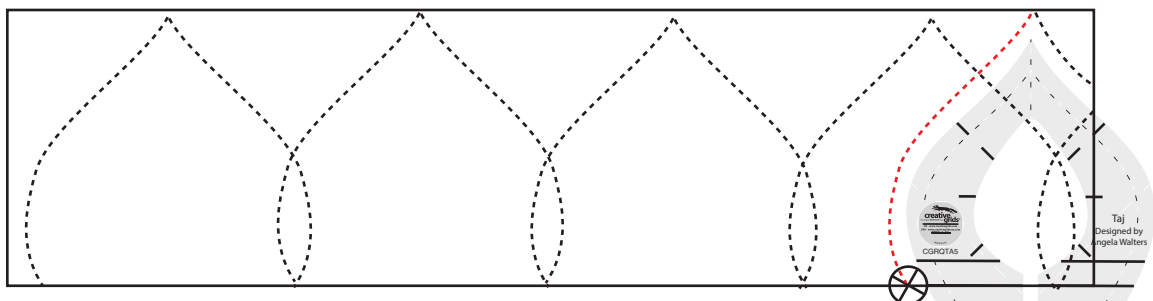

Travel along the edge of the area if necessary.

5

Quilt along the ruler heading in the opposite direction.

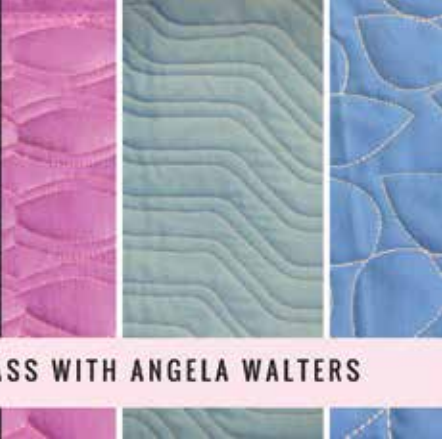

6

Even in the arcs are perfectly placed it will still look great! Continue quilting along the ruler stopping at the seam.

Continue quilting arcs until you reach the side you started on. Stop when you reach the edge.

7

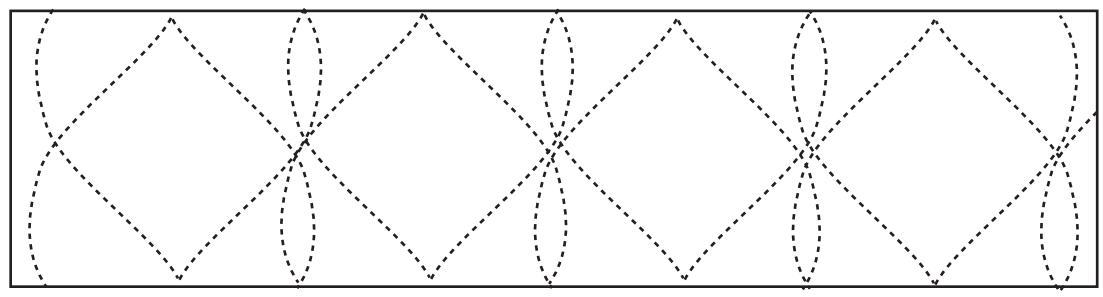

8

If there are any gaps, you can travel along the edge, then quilt along the ruler to fill it in.

Optional Variation:

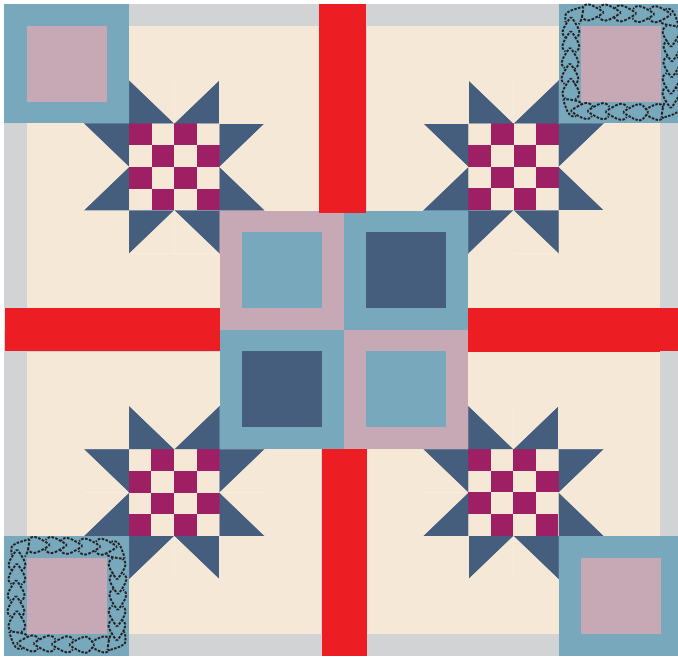

Quilt the second part of the design upside down to get a different border design.
